Agneetapark
On your way to the North Delft, don’t forget to pay a visit to these luxurious worker apartments constructed back in 1884 on the initiatives of the Director of the Dutch Yeast & Spirit Factory Jacob Comelis in the name of his wife Agnete Matthes, the very first garden village witnessed by the Netherlands.
Characterized by meandering paths, roads and waterways and an irregularly shaped pond, the 156 homes here are now considered among the most desired places to live in Delft. Go, have a look and get jealous!! 😊

Hertenkamp
The Deer park
The Big Lake & the Windmills

- At the mid day break with friends over the big lake with packed up sandwiches, cool drinks and the soothing breeze... life could not get better!!

The area around the Great Lake is varied in different habitats ranging from open water, reed beds, planting stocks and beautiful natural glades.

The presence of the Dutch culture is felt when the two windmills just south of the Deer park peek into the area. Go try this place.
What we gain?
Thank you!
