

You are being invited to participate in a research study titled: Design of a Low-Cost Laparoscope. This study is part of a Master's graduation project at TU Delft, conducted by Tijn Jeletich, supervised by Jenny Dankelman and Roos Oosting. The data collected in this research may be used for a scientific publication.

We are developing a simple and robust laparoscope to be used in low resource settings. To assess the performance and usability of our current prototype, input of medical professionals in the field of laparoscopy is essential. Therefore, you are invited to take part in this research, where you will be asked to perform laparoscopic exercises and to fill in a survey about the performance of the laparoscope. In total, the research will take about 10 minutes.

Personal details will only be processed for administrative purposes and will not be published.

There are no expected risks to taking part. You will not receive payment.

Your participation is voluntary. You may stop at any time or skip any question without giving a reason.

You also have the right to access, change or delete your personal data after the interview.

If you have questions, complaints, or want to change anything, please contact:
