

“We wanted to position ourselves like strategic partners, so we decided that we were going to train others in the research that we didn’t want to do.”

Researcher talking about her experience with training