

The critical reading investigates large scale urban processes such as infrastructural development and extractive operations which have been operationalised amidst the vulnerable Himalayan Geography, thereby resulting in a state of Accumulation and degrading social ecologies and regional economies.

Spatio-Temporal Synchronicity

The Critical Thinking approach synchronises the ephemeral processes within the material geographies of their context by proposing a spatio-temporal program: adding, repurposing or removing infrastructures to serve a certain program during a certain time period which are further recycled and displaced to a new site to cater to a new processes.
