- A feeling of hope by inspiring them by the experiences of BIG SIBLINGS.

- A feeling of protection by providing them a safe space to relate with BIG SIBLINGS.

- A feeling of guidance by building up a trustworthy connection with BIG SIBLINGS.

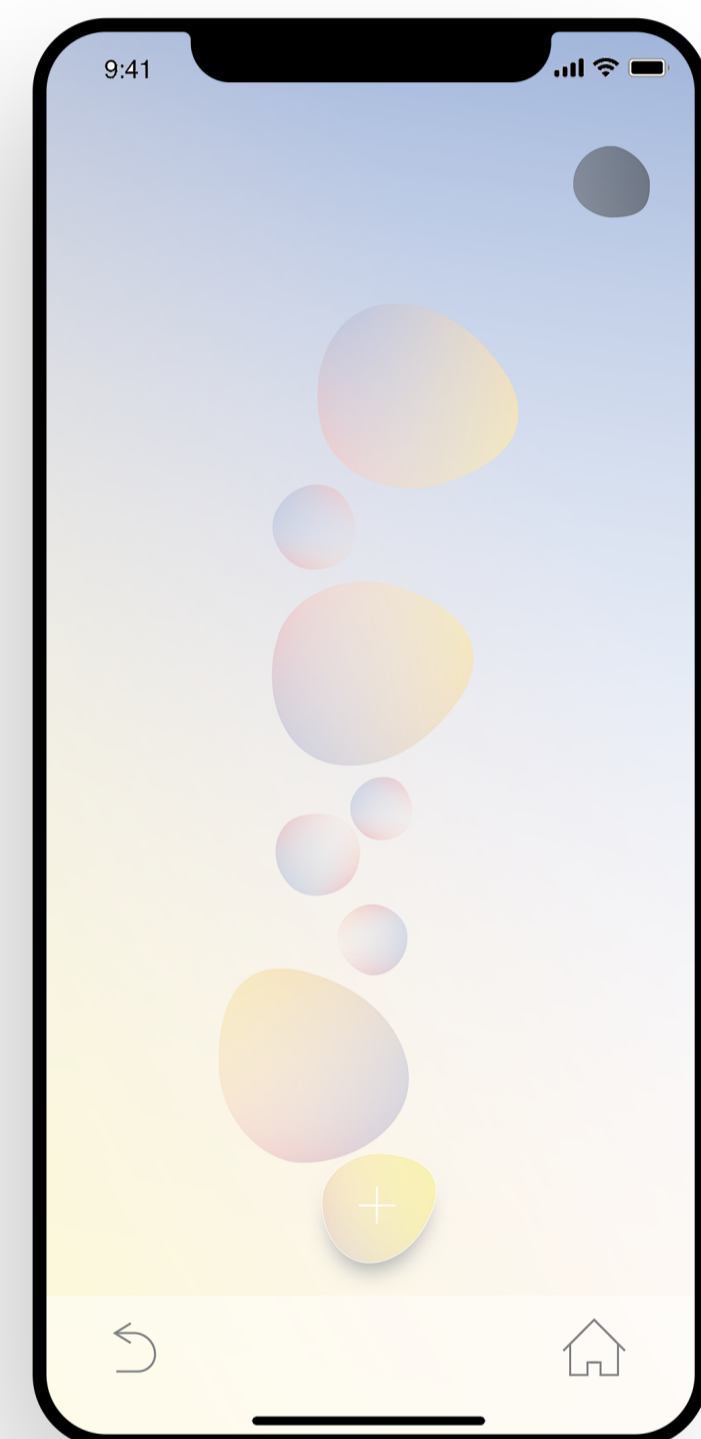

- A feeling of belonging by associating them with people alike.

Small Siblings

Catholic members of the LGBT+ community, in the closet, that are struggling in reconciling their sexuality with their relationship with God.

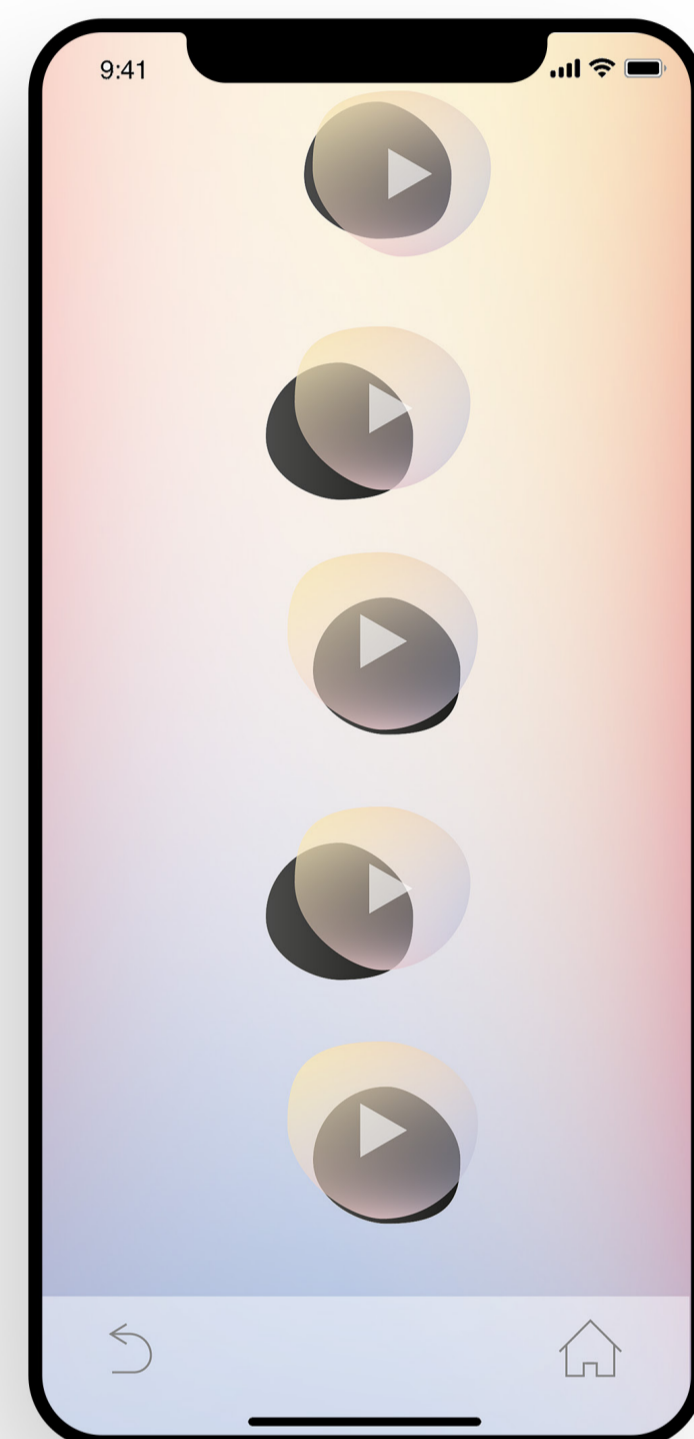

Big Siblings

Catholic members of the LGBT+ community, out of the closet, that were able to reconcile their sexuality with their relationship with God.

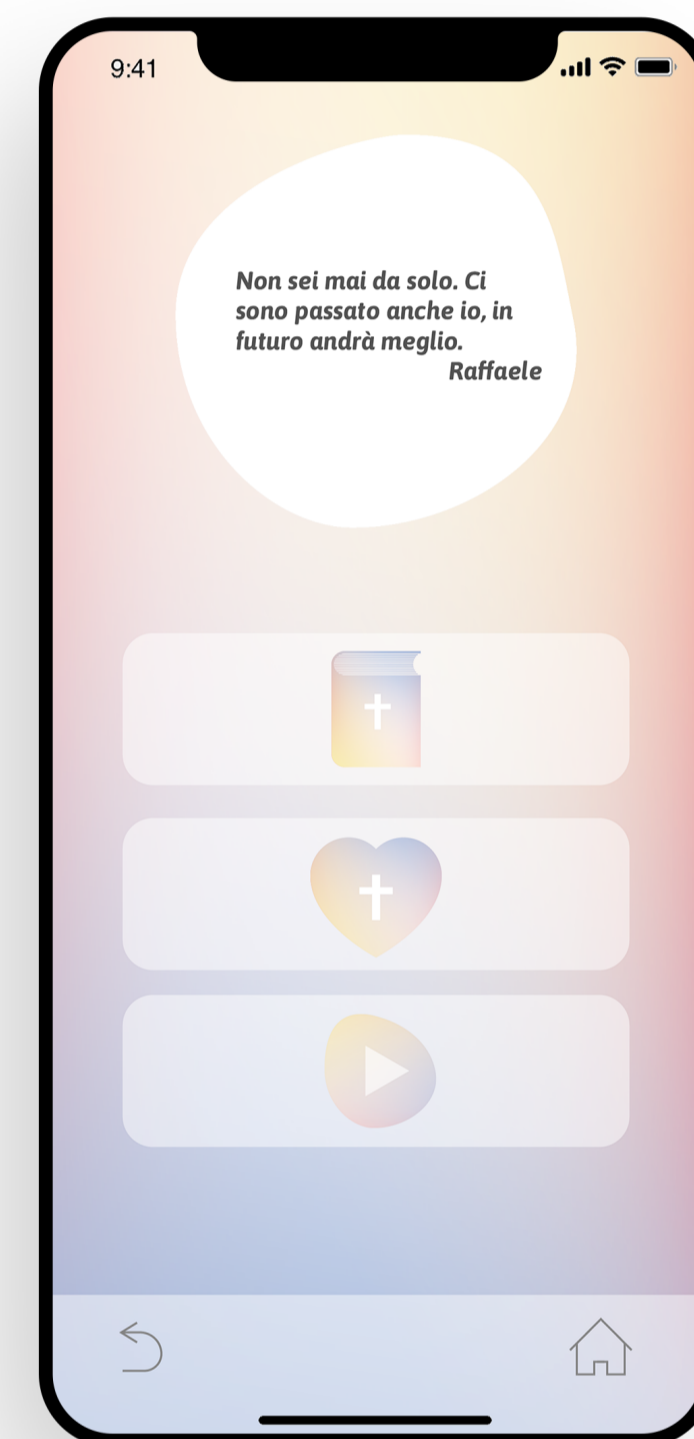

The Journey

The journey of the Small Sibling has two kinds of bubbles. Big Bubbles appear when Small Siblings has a conversation with Big Siblings. It contains material for the weekly reflections. Small Bubbles are added every time Small Siblings changed one of the negative thoughts regarding their sexuality and their connection with God.

The Conversation

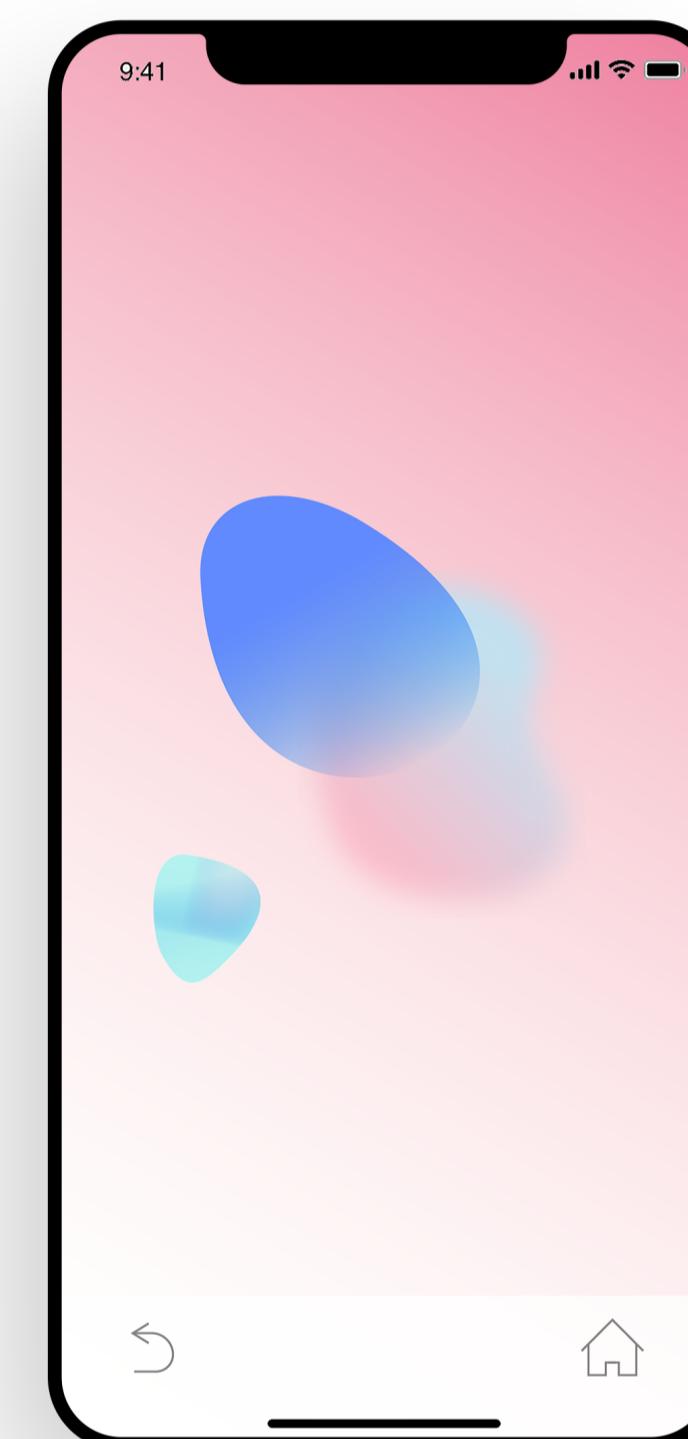

Small Siblings talk with Big Siblings through vocal messages, while Big Siblings respond with videos. Big Siblings reply by sharing a similar experience, thus focusing on empathy. When Big Sibling answer to the vocal message, Big Siblings' bubble will "hug" the other bubble to display affection and support to the Small Sibling.

The Big Bubble

The Big Bubble contains a support message from the Big Sibling and three sections:

1. An LGBT+ friendly passage from the Bible
2. Digital material for personal reflections
3. The conversation with the Big Sibling

The Small Bubble

Every time Small Siblings change a thought, a new Small Bubble is added. It gives access to the ritual section, where three different visuals represent ice, water, and steam. Each visual gives access to a section where to write personal reflections related to that element.

The Ritual

The ice is represents the negative thought that can not be nutriment for a personal connection with God.

The water is the thought that has been changed, and now it can nurture a relationship with God.

The thought has changed in the form of steam: a prayer in which Small Siblings thank God for changing their mind.
