Valuable information was collected through interviews with local people about the small initiatives upon which they base the development of their settlements. The places visited composed an image of the economic, social and environmental conditions in Suriname, much more tactile than the one created during our outside-in approach.

The inhabitants of Perica are developing their village by combining production of podosiri palm and small scale eco and agro tourism.

a method of Celebration, where the example of Perica by celebrating its particularity can spread in its surrounding region.
