Binnengasthuisterrein area has a cultural and historical character. The en-clave of the original monastery has been transformed in the course of time to field hospital and later to become university complex. Each is a rebuilding and replacement with new construction from a single (new) functionality to the control of one client characteristic part of the building history. Repurposing and adaptation can be seen as a cultural tradition, where every new generation buildings are placed. The area is now in its fourth generation and in need for a new functionality."
