A Manifesto of Babel Village

A Manifesto of Babel Village

Declaration

Babel

The story of the city of Babylon is recorded in Genesis 11:1-9. Everyone enon another language. As people migrated from the east toward the Shinar plains, they could not understand each other, and gathered near the face of the earth, and they stopped building the city. Thus the city was called Babel.

New-Babel

The story of the city of Babylon is recorded in Utopia Manifestis 10-15. Dysto-uopian in its dark aspects. Many of the principles used in Babylon are adapted, and the architecture is reimagined to reflect the needs of the future. The city is self-sufficient and sustainable, with a focus on renewable energy and sustainable living.

Wall

Before I could walk I had to know what I was walking or in walking.

I had to find a way to live.

Once I had my way

I was lost.

—Robert Frost, American Poet

The Wall is the first line of defense and is considered the most important part of the city. It surrounds the entire city and is built to protect the inhabitants from external threats. The Wall is divided into four sections, each with its own unique design and purpose.

Tower of Babel

Every building consists of about 30 single cubes which can accommodate 2-5000 people. Every 4th floor has a building that is a unit cell, which is considered the smallest collective in the new city. The core of the unit cell functions as the child care center, workplace center, community library, and debating hall and is shared by the members of the unit cell.

Unit Core

An out-line of Babel Village

The social mode

Babylon, a city with a population made up of migrants, the city lacks the qualities of a city that is supposed to give city a sense of belonging and purpose. This can cause social isolation and may lead to social issues such as crime and poverty.

Equal Society

In Babel Village people are encouraged to participate in decision-making and to contribute to the community. Everyone is expected to contribute to the common good.

Policy

Group is considered to be an individual in the new city. All inhabitants are expected to contribute to the community.

A Manifesto of Babel Village

The credit system aims to make the prospecting good of man out of them.

to contribute to the community.

The credit system aims to make the prospecting good of man out of them.

New-Babel will be the best city for all other urban villages, with self-sustaining and sufficient energy. After seeing the progressiveness

of the first city, the new urban village

will be in the same way.

The

line means a bright future, but at the beginning

it means going up and down.

The city is divided

into four sections, each with its own unique design and

purpose.

New-Babel will be the best city for all other urban

villages, with self-sustaining and

sufficient energy. After seeing the progressiveness

of the first city, the new urban village

will be in the same way.

The

line means a bright future, but at the beginning

it means going up and down.

The city is divided

into four sections, each with

its own unique design and

purpose.

New-Babel will be the best city for all other urban

villages, with self-sustaining and

sufficient energy. After seeing the progressiveness

of the first city, the new urban village

will be in the same way.

The

line means a bright future, but at the beginning

it means going up and down.

The city is divided

into four sections, each with

its own unique design and

purpose.

New-Babel will be the best city for all other urban

villages, with self-sustaining and

sufficient energy. After seeing the progressiveness

of the first city, the new urban village

will be in the same way.

The

line means a bright future, but at the beginning

it means going up and down.

The city is divided

into four sections, each with

its own unique design and

purpose.

New-Babel will be the best city for all other urban

villages, with self-sustaining and

sufficient energy. After seeing the progressiveness

of the first city, the new urban village

will be in the same way.

The

line means a bright future, but at the beginning

it means going up and down.

The city is divided

into four sections, each with

its own unique design and

purpose.

New-Babel will be the best city for all other urban

villages, with self-sustaining and

sufficient energy. After seeing the progressiveness

of the first city, the new urban village

will be in the same way.

The

line means a bright future, but at the beginning

it means going up and down.

The city is divided

into four sections, each with

its own unique design and

purpose.