The map of Holland’s Garden is not a controlled by formal government, outcome, is no longer the result of best can be seen as part of a larger which Dutch national government This adaptive governance regime diverse issues. They make up the realities that the centralized govern- changes as a result of shifting con- In light of ongoing globalisation and making that constitutes a specific in the east the peat lands are oxidat- with ongoing seepage, causing soil urgent water management problems extensive and differentiated polders. farming. Parallel to this urbanites become a new standard in agricul- surgery or enjoy retirement in one the urbanites can recover from the future this successful histori- sive dairy companies will cluster become a new standard in agricul- sion, trade, logistics, supply, serv-