Utilizing a 6-axis robot, one is able to achieve double curved and pre-formed component logic systems that can eventually be translated into a manufacturing process where non-standard modules such as the one above can be produced rapidly and efficiently.